5 Tips To Keep Your Dog Safe on Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is here! You are busy cooking for this glorious holiday! Have you stopped to consider how your dog fits into your Thanksgiving feast? Most of us consider our dog as part of our family which could possibly entail including him in the Thanksgiving Day feast. However, you must keep in mind that your dog depends on you to be a good steward and protect him at all costs. You don't have to exclude him from the festivities but, you must set some limitations. Keep reading for 5 ways to keep your dog safe AND happy this Thanksgiving.

Exercise your dog. Wait, what? Yes, you heard me right! A tired dog is less likely to misbehave and look for mischief! If your dog is full of energy, he will be more likely to be underfoot while you are preparing for the feast and entertaining your guests.

Keep Alcohol out of your dog's reach. Your dog might not be a drinker but with all of the tempting aromas floating through the air, your dog just might be inclined to take a sip! Alcohol is completely toxic - even in small amounts!

The Perfect Time For Giving

As we get closer to Thanksgiving there are lots of requests for donations. We would like to donate to every cause but it just isn't possible. We would like to take a moment to talk about our two preferred charitable organizations.

Senior Pet Assistance Network (SPAN) - SPAN provides support to elderly pet owners in the Dallas area. They help the seniors by providing food for the pets. SPAN also helps with routine vet care.

SPAN is a valuable resource in our community. Without them many Dallas area seniors would be unable to keep their furry friends. Guardian Pet Sitters is a proud supporter of SPAN.

If you would like to donate to SPAN please visit www.seniorpets.org

Society for Companion Animals: Operation

Transport - Did you know that in some parts of the country there is a waiting list for adoptable dogs? Operation Transport takes dogs in Dallas off of death row and transports them to awaiting homes and shelters outside of Dallas. This is a huge undertaking. They require crates and bedding to transport the dogs and funds for purchasing space on flights.

Guardian Pet Sitters supports Operation Transport and their efforts to reduce overpopulation in Dallas. We love the idea of taking dogs with no place left and giving them a home that is just waiting for them.
